Excerpt from The Juvenile Instructor, Vol. 18: Organ for Young Latter-Day Saints; June 1, 1883 Through the intercession of Judge J. K. Kane, of Philadelphia, the father of Colonel Thomas L. Kane, (whose fair and truthful statement of the situation of the Saints when driven out from Nauvoo, was concluded in the last number) permission was obtained, from the president and department of Indian affairs at Washington; for the Saints to remain during the Winter on the lands of the Pottawatomies. Colonel Kane, when detained among the Saints some time previously by sickness, received such kind treatment from them that he wished to repay it by using his influence in their favor, and especially to secure to them, the right of remaining where they had established their Winter quarters until they could proceed on their journey. Sickness had prevented him from doing so himself, but his father had acted for him, as was shown by the result. On recovering from his sickness, Colonel Kane wrote to Elder Willard Richards, that he also intended to secure a lease from the government...
