In this story, the young girl Ra-Eli watches as her family agonizes over the illness of her baby brother Samson. When they approach a healer, the answer comes: Hold a ceremony to honor your ancestors and ask them to help, a joyful ceremony filled with guests. Joyful? my mother said. How can we be joyful at a time like this? A joyful ceremony it must be, replied the healer. Nothing less will bring the ancestors from their lands of the night. Let's seek joy in hope. And there follows one of those magical sequences that are found in the traditional tales of East Africa, where Tololwa comes from. First, neighbours and friends come to the event -- then angels and finally Mola -- God. Music and dancing ensue, and when the exhausted Ra-Eli wakes, Mola hands the now recovered baby to his joyful mother. This story is a true testament to the power of ceremony and music and the honouring of ancestors who come, from the lands of the night Reviews: A new picture book from Tololwa M. Mollel is always...
