THE MECHANICS OF THE EARTHQUAKE, VOL. 2 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Mechanics of the Earthquake, Vol. 2 The time given is according to my watch. On Tuesday, April 17, 1908, my error was 1 minute slow at noon by time-ball, or time signals which were received in Weather Bureau and with which my watch has been compared for a number of years. The rate of my watch was 5 seconds loss per day; therefore the corrected time of my entry is 5 13 05 A. M. This of course is not the beginning of the quake. I would say perhaps that 6 or more seconds may have elapsed between the act of waking, realizing, and looking at the watch and making the entry. I remember distinctly getting the minute-hand s position, previous to the most violent portion of the Shock. The end of the shock I did not get exactly, as I was watching the second-hand and the end came several seconds before I fully took in the fact that the motion had ceased. The second-hand was somewhere between 40 and 50 when I realized this. I lost the position of the second-hand because of difficulty in keeping my feet, somewhere around the 20-second mark.
