Riding Shotgun: Women Write About Their Mothers

By -

Borealis Books. Hardcover. Condition: New. 248 pages. Just in time for Mothers Day, a group of Americas celebrated literary women have come together to tackle a topic close to their hearts: Mom. These highly personal yet often universal stories offer windows into those influential mother-daughter moments that have forever shaped the lives And perspectives of the writers, powerful womenauthors, spokespeople, scholars, teachers, and some mothers themselves. Jonis Agees mother haunts her daughters plumbing. Tai Colemans mother struggled to raise five children on her own wits and a single paycheck. Heid Erdrichs mother showed her daughter both the falsity and the truth in the cliché of the Indian Princess. Sheila OConnors mother, who ran a road construction company, was not like other mothers. Ka Vangs mother dodged the hand grenades that her husbands first wife threw on her wedding day. Morgan Grayce Willows mother drove home late at night after selling cosmetics to farm wives as her daughter rode shotgun. In true tales of startling candor and rich insight, these and many other talented writers reflect on the women who raised them, revealing hard work and hardship, successes and failures, love and angermothers and daughters. Kathryn Kysar, the author of Dark...
