Jill Griffin has mastered the art of being invisible, so when she falls in love with sexy rocker James Sheridan, at first she is content to live in his larger than life shadow. Building a normal life together under the glare of the media is challenging and further complicated by constant touring, James partying and the mixed signals she gets from James twin brother Alex. What is that guy s problem? When her poems and journal ramblings become the songs on James best-selling album, Jill has to step out of her comfort zone and figure out how to live her life in a spotlight all her own. With no road map to follow, she struggles to navigate her way in her search for happiness. As her professional success threatens her relationship with James, Jill questions whether she can make a living writing love songs without the love of her life.
