Detective Vince Kato is the best of the best, despite how unorthodox his methods of law enforcement may be. From his Marty McFly life vest, to his high top sneakers, Sony Walkman and dinosaur of a phone, it is clear this is a man stuck in the 80 s. Vince is having a bad week. After another successful case, in which he inadvertently blew up the top half of the bank and its fourth floor parking garage, Vince is suspended from the force, slapped with yet another subpoena and later, caught in the middle of a shoot out between rival high class gang members with suits. When the gangs flee, leaving Vince holding the smoking gun, strangely enough, the FBI show up and place the blame on him. Now Vince must clear his name. During this game of cat and mouse between the rival gang members and the FBI, the story starts to unfold. Vince believes he has been caught in the middle of a war over a new prototype facial recognition sniper rifle code named: The SNIP, whose target is the Governor of California. Follow Vince as he uncovers what is truly at stake, all while meeting a mini AI robot, borrowed from the CIA, politicians gone bad, and possibly falling for a know it all hostage he can t stand. Welcome to BULLET-CITY.
