Excerpt from Development of United States Foreign Policy: Addresses and Messages of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Compiled From Official Sources, Intended to Present the Chronological Development of the Foreign Policy of the United States From the Announcement of the Good Neighbor Policy in 1933 As a family we appreciate the hospitality of our host, President Justo, and the Government and people of Argentina; and all of us are happy that to our friend Dr. Saavedra Lamas has come the well deserved award of the Nobel Prize for great service in the cause of world peace. Three years ago the American family met In nearby Montevideo, the great capital of the Republic of Uruguay. They were dark days. A shattering depression, unparalleled in its intensity, held us, with the rest of the world, in its grip. And in our own Hemisphere a tragic war was raging between two Of our sister Republics. Yet, at that conference there was born not only hope for our common future but a greater measure Of mutual trust between the American democracies than had ever existed before. In this Western Hemisphere the night of fear has been dispelled. Many of the intolerable burdens of economic depression have been lightened and, due in no small part to our common efforts, every Nation Of this Hemisphere is today at peace with its neighbors. This is no conference to form alliances, to divide the spoils of war, to partition countries, to deal with human beings as though they were pawns in a game Of chance. Our purpose, under happy auspices, is to assure the continuance Of the blessings Of peace. Three years ago, recognizing that a crisis was being thrust upon...
