By Richard Harding Davis

Flying Chipmunk Publishing, United States, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . The Princess Aline - Morton Carlton, a portrait-painter of international reputation, is unlucky in love. It s not that he never meets the right women. It s only that when the right one comes along, he changes his mind. Indeed, it seems he is destined to forever wander like a lost votary through Venus s domains. But one day a change appears on the horizon. He sees a portrait s the Princess Aline of Hohenwald in an illustrated newspaper, and falls madly in love with his artist s conception of her. Throwing all to the winds, he resolves to go to Europe and look her up. The quest begins. As is usual with Davis s stories, the plot moves right along. There are interesting diversions in each of the major capitals at which the travelers stop, and these give unmistakable local color and interest to the whole. However, the preservation of Imperial Europe s unique flavor is what gives this novel its chief value. Published in 1895. * * * * The Man Who Could Not Lose - Published in...
