Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Old Order in Europe and the New Order in Russia Having been a land where apparently everyone was contented with the government and the existing order, Russia became all of a sudden, a land of anarchy and chaos, where a large section of the community were so discontented that they were, by violent methods, removing that existing order and trying to replace it by something else. What had happened to cause this astonishing change? Was there really civil peace, law and order in Russia under Tsarism and Kerensky, and did anarchy and chaos and class warfare commence with the October revolution? Let us see first what actually were the conditions under which the population of Russia lived before the revolution. Russia under Tsarism First let us briefly examine the principal elements in Russian rural and urban society, and their relations to each other, in order to see what were the circumstances which made a political upheaval inevitable. Central and northern Russia consist of wide areas of agricultural land and forests dotted with towns and other centers, where industry has developed on the European factory system. Parallel with and dependent upon the larger factories are many subsidiary industries which are still carried on in the villages on the old domestic industrial system. In many areas the factories are scattered about among the villages and thus there is a continual intercourse between the workers on the field and the toilers in the workshop. Most peasant families have one or two members working in cotton, timber, or leather mills near the village or preparing the raw materials for the factory in some little cooperative artel. These workers...
