ALICE JAMES BOOKS, United States, 2008. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Big-hearted, individualistic in scope and voice, Idra Novey's The Next Country surveys a terrain that's truly multifaceted and calibrated down to every word, every nuance. Each poem's imagistic certainty enlarges meaning. Line by line, a playful innuendo moves us, and we find ourselves in that rugged country of the human spirit where enlightenment and surprise are twin rulers. Yusef Komunyakaa In these powerful lyric poems, Idra Novey's exploration of country extends beyond national boundaries into the countries of marriage and family, history and the unspoken, leading to a bold and imaginative reckoning of the self with the larger world. From Into the Atacama: When I said I wished this trip, I meant the rush of song as we left the city. I meant the bus. I meant the woman who played her flip-flops like drum sticks against the window. For singing with strangers in a desert is like getting closer to the moon. And the glow of a moment is like a moon, caught behind clouds and then visible and then hidden again. And when I said here, I meant elsewhere-I meant moving. Idra Novey's chapbook was selected by Carolyn Forché for a Poetry Society of America Chapbook Fellowship, and she has received a PEN Translation Fund Grant. Her poems have appeared in Slate, Paris Review, and Ploughshares. She teaches at Columbia University and the Bard College Prison Initiative.
