Excerpt from The Latter-Day Saints Millennial Star, Vol. 85: March 8, 1923 A short but thoughtful article from the pen of the Rev. J. Newland-smith in a parish magazine which fell into the writer s hands some little time. Ago, contained a paragraph which gave a clear illustration of the manner in which the moral idea has steadily progressed and advanced from one period of the world s history to another until men had become sufficiently enlightened to receive the more lofty and perfect law, as expounded by our Lord himself, of loving one s neighbor as one s self, and doing unto others as we would wish them to do unto us; and inasmuch as it throws considerable light upon the subject under consider ation, the writer ventures to quote that paragraph here in full.
