Excerpt from Edinburgh Medical Journal, Vol. 7: Combining the Monthly Journal of Medicine and the Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal. Catherine Reilley, t. 32. Strangulated femoral hernia. Down thirty-six hours. Sac opened. Bowel returned. Cured. 4. Mrs Notman. Had been troubled with an oblique inguinal hernia for six years, which, however, was always readily reduced, with the exception of a small part which never could be kept up. On the day previous to admission into hospital it had again come down, and she had experienced severe twisting pain in the umbilical region, together with nausea, and vomiting, which, on the following day, became stereoraceous, when she was at once sent to hospital. On examination it was found that, in addition to the hernial protrusion of left side, there existed directly over the crural canal of the right side a hard, isolated, prominent, and well-defined swelling, about the size of a walnut, which patient stated had commenced a year ago and gradually enlarged. The protrusion on the opposite side could be easily returned within the external ring; but doubts being entertained as to its complete reduction, it was cut down upon, and a constriction was found to exist at the upper part of the canal. The bowel was returned, and a distending injection given immediately after the operation, which brought away a large quantity of bilious-looking fces. Hernial symptoms were now quite relieved; but the patient suffered from severe bronchitis, and for some years past she had been affected with cancer of the os uteri. The hernial wound healed rapidly; but the patient died three months afterwards from the cancer of the womb and bronchitis. 5. Janet Patterson, t. 40. Strangulated femoral hernia....
