Cutting: Latest Notes Exchanged Between the Legation of the United States of America and the Minister of Foreign Relations of the Republic of Mexico Sincerely desirous of maintaining with the Government of Mexico the most cordial and friendly relations, I cannot think that that end could be more signally promoted than by that Government following the highly honorable example of France, in removing from the amicable relations of the two countries a law which stands as a constant menace to their continuance. In urging Mexico to adopt this course at this opportune moment, when the question can be considered dispassionately, my Government only suggests what it has put in practice itself, under circumstances somewhat similar. This is shown by the action of Congress in the McLeod case, which occurred in 1842, to which I beg leave to refer your Excellency. In that case, when, in reply to the demand of the British Government, for the release of the prisoner, who was in the custody of the authorities of the State of New York,...
