

The Making of a Doctor: An Autobiography (Paperback)

By John Hinman

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .About this book: This book is an autobiography; it follows one person s lifetime. It begins with early childhood and follows the steps leading to entrance and progress through medical school, family developments, practice years, retirement, and post retirement. It attempts to relate not only his actions, but also why he did the things he did, what mattered to him, what worked out and what did not, what gave joy and meaning to his life, what insights he acquired, and what was his developing philosophy of life. About the author: Dr. Hinman was born in 1933 in a small farming community in northeastern Nebraska. He graduated from the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, where in addition to receiving a medical degree, he also received a Masters degree in physiology, taught physiology, and did research on the electrophysiology of muscular dystrophy. Following a later naval internship and susequent service with the Marines, he practiced Family Medicine for thirty-five years in Longmont, Colorado. He served as Chief of Staff for a merger of two hospitals, and was the founding chairperson for...
