Chin Music (Paperback)

By Lee Edelstein

Lee Edelstein, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Chin Music. A 95 mile-per-hour fastball thrown at a hitter's chin - an instant's difference between disrupting the batter's concentration and hitting him in the head. As a metaphor in life, chin music is the split second when destinies are altered and all of our certainties about who we are change forever. Sixteen-year-old Ryan Buck is a talented athlete who was fortunate to escape with minor injuries from the horrific car crash that devastated his family. But factor in the suffocating guilt and the recurring nightmare that plagues him and maybe Ryan wasn't so lucky, after all. Two-and-a-half years and countless hours of therapy later, Ryan still can't remember a thing about the accident and it's making for agonizingly slow progress. But everything changes when his mom, Susan, is forced to sell the old Babe Ruth artifacts that have been in the family for years. Enter Sam Frank, a Yoda-like figure, who saves Susan from making a costly mistake. Sam's friendship and knowledge provides the support Susan needs to investigate a secret that has...
