Outskirts Press, United States, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Five years ago Charlie Simmons was living what he considered to be a good life. He had a good marriage, a beautiful home, nice cars, a successful career; he had a lot of friends. He and his wife were empty nesters; the kids were grown and had moved on with their own lives and careers and they were able to do more of the things they wanted. They took trips to nice places and enjoyed spending time at their place in Mexico. Charlie had spent the past twenty-five years working for large corporations. He had been the victim of downsizing and buy outs in the past but had always been able to bounce back from the setbacks they caused in his career. But this time it was different. Things started falling apart in his life and he didn't know what to do. It started when Charlie lost his father to cancer. That was followed by a three-wheeled ATV accident while he was on vacation in Mexico. The accident led to eight surgeries including six on his left knee, his shoulder and wrist. Eventually he became addicted to the Percocet the doctor prescribed for the pain, lost his job, got divorced, lost his home, his savings, his vacation home and a lot of money. He ballooned up to 270 pounds as a result of lack of exercise and a steady diet of fast food delivery. Charlie relocates to a new state in order to start a new life when he accepts a job with a local telecom company, but things don't turn out the way he expects them to. The job he moved for fell through; he goes on over...
