Not illustrated. 1886 Excerpt: . . . NUMISMATIC COMMENTARY ON PAUSANIAS. II. Books III. , IV. , V. , VI. , VII, VIII. plates LXV--LXVIII In the present paper we continue the commentary begun in last years Journal, and set forth the numismatic facts which run parallel to those books of Pausanias which deal with the remainder of Peloponnesus; Laconia, Messenia, Elis, Achaia, and Arcadia. Athens, Phocis, and Boeotia still remain for future treatment. In spite of our efforts to be complete, we have already discovered a number of coins of Corinth and Argos and the neighbouring cities which had escaped us, and which present new types, or important varieties of the types which appear in our plates. This will necessitate the publication of a supplement to our first paper. While this is in preparation numismatists will be doing the greatest service if they will let us have casts of any...
