That improves the economy by 5 percent. That might cost a little bit more, 20 or so per vehicle. The point is, the technology is there, it exists in the marketplace, at a very modest cost to increase the fuel efficiency, and I say get on with the job. I would also say that we do not have to have an economy exclu-sively dependent upon oil, no matter where the source. It is par-ticularly abhorrent that so much of it is foreign-based. We can have alternative fuel vehicles. I am involved in a little venture right now with the U. S. Postal Service. The U. S. Postal Service is right now in the first phase of a contract to purchase 500 electric vehicles for use in areas like the Los Angeles Basin,...
