

Comma: A Memoir of Believing in the Promise of Every Moment

By Hope McCain

Createspace, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .At six years old, Hope McCain learned how to make Kool-Aid--not because she liked to drink it, but because it might one day save her father's life. Her father was a type 1 diabetic with kidney failure, and from an early age she made it her duty to do whatever it took to hold on to him. Now Hope reflects on the 25 years since her father became ill, and how even the simplest moments with him have shaped her life. She has watched her father endure type 1 diabetes, end-stage renal failure, a double-organ transplant, cancer, and organ rejection. His determination that has helped him to live more than 15 years beyond one doctor's promise that he'd never see his only daughter graduate from high school, has given Hope a unique appreciation for the idea of never giving up. Inspired by the Gracie Allen quote, Never place a period where God has placed a comma, Comma: A Memoir of Believing in the Promise of Every Moment embraces that life is incredible because there is...
