Excerpt from Revelation by Fire: A Sermon Preached in Worcester, Aug. 17, 1862, the Sunday After the Burial of Mr. William Hudson, a Private in the Twenty-Fifth Regiment of Massachusetts Volunteers Sympathy, and tenderness. But I think it may beshown - and in this discourse I shall undertake to show - that the sterner trials of life do not so much to form the principle as to reveal and deepen the character; that a bad man, wanting faith and affec tion, is made worse by them; while a good man, whose motives are lofty, who walks in purity and with guarded conscience, will, through these very visita tions, break down and sweep away all false supports, reveal what is most substantial in his life, belief, and purpose, and be made the better for them. This is my doctrine. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
