NAN BENNET OR, THE MISERIES OF NEGLECTED EDUCATION! BY A cOUNTRY SCHOOLMASTER. Vice is a monster of such frightful mein, That to be hated needs but to be seen. Pope. Doctoa Coldwell, a physician as eminent for his benevolence as his practice, was riding near some cottages which stood on a lonely common, when he was stopped by a woman, who begged him, for Gods sake, to alight, and look at a poor child who as dying of the smallpox. The doctor entered the hut, and found a middle-aged woman, apparently the worse of liquor, weeping over a wretched baby. The childs face was covered with pustules, and it lingered in the last stage of that dreadful disorder. Some medicines were readily procured from a neigh bouring lady, (who kept a small dispensary for benevolent purposes,) but they were administered in vain; for the wretched object expired in the arms of its worthless parent the same evening. Upon making some inquiry after the stranger, the doctor leamt she was a soldiers wife, and had been abroad with Vol n. Q her her husband, who had been slairtin the warsthat she was now travelling home to her native county, still some hundred miles distant, in the expectation of finding some of her relations alive, who might probably...
