

The Defence of Troia: Book 2 the Paladin Chronicles

By Dr Neil Port

Neil Port. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 478 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.1in. The Makedne army under Parmenion has crossed the Bosphoros and is carving its way through the Greek maritime cities of Bithynia with ridiculous ease. The Greek city of Troia is now an ally of Aiola but has been seriously weakened after losing the last war. Of the cities of Anatol that line the entrance to the Black Sea, Troia is the great prize and now it stands in desperate peril. Philippos the Makedne king plans to increase his army several fold and when he does he will overcome all possible resistance. The Athenai navy is likely to attack before that. Hakeem, his wife the elf queen Elana, and their adopted daughter Jacinta ride in haste to join the city as it prepares for a siege. But the large armies headed to Troia are not the only danger for the pitiful few defenders. As something seems to go wrong with the preparations the mood of the city turns dangerous. If the populous revolts, the small city garrison will be unable to maintain order, and all will be lost. Also, while the elves have most of their magic,...
