Forgotten Books, United States, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Semi-Centennial of the Buffalo Historical Society: May 20, 1912 The Young Men s Association celebrated its quarter century anniversary in 1861. It had been called the sole guardian and representative of the literary, scientific and artistic poverty of Buffalo. The year following saw the beginnings, not only of your Society, but of the Fine Arts Academy and of the Society of Natural Sciences. The achievements of the little band of pioneers, who, amid the surging billows of civil war, created these havens of peace, must not be forgotten. If our three societies had little else to offer in the early years, they at least gave to each other their friendship and sympathy. They were inspired with the enthusiasm of youth, and struggled bravely along, steadily drawing nearer the goal of their ambition. There were, indeed, many discouragements, for it was necessary, not only to secure efficient management, with salaries paid mostly in the coin of appreciation, but to create public interest in their work. Success, if delayed, at last crowned their efforts. For many years our societies were neighbors in the Library Building. The Exposition gave to you this beautiful Historical Building, and thus opened a new era in your own history. The educational work you are now doing would far surpass the visions of the founders. Today we of the Fine Arts Academy have our marble palace, across the lake; our fame has also gone abroad; and we are to celebrate our fiftieth anniversary in a few months. The Society of Natural Sciences is planning to join us again in the near future with a building of its own. Art, Science and History are indeed inseparable! About...
