Therefore he ordered his ten shipmates to bail out. Then at the last minute he decided to try to bring the ship in, although he would not allow his crew to take the risks involved in that gamble. He finally landed the ship safely and when he crawled out he was interviewed by an Intelligence officer who asked him how in the world he had made it down out of the sky with his ship so badly damaged. This is what he said: The Man Upstairs brought me down. I talked to Him plenty - and He must have heard me. You see, the chips were down!Started a One-Man AmbushRecently there came over the wires one of the most dramatic stories of a praying soldier that we have heard in this war. It concerns Hugh Barr Miller, that diminutive little star quarterback of Alabamas championship football team of 1930 and 31. We shall never forget how he piloted that team to a 24 to 0 victory over Washington State in the Rose Bowl. He is one of footballs all-time stars. Well, Miller recently was awarded the Navy Cross for one of the most courageous and unusual exploits in the war annals. He was shipwrecked, and for thirty-nine days, wounded and starving, he hid in the jungles of Kolombanggara. When he got better he started a one-man ambush of Japanese patrols and killed fifteen of the enemy with hand grenades. But the thing which makes his story fascinating to me is not the fact that he received the highest award the Navy offers its heroes, but what I happened the...
