Excerpt from Class of 1885 Princeton: A Record of the Class, Particularly From 1901 to 1909, Including an Account of the Reunion in 1905, Compiled in Anticipation of the Reunion in June, 1910 Beginning in February, 1905, a series of postal cards with pictures of Princeton began to reach the members of the class, reminding them that a Reunion was to be held at Commencement time. After about three months of this gentle titillation the following letter was sent out: Class of 85 Reunion In Princeton, June 10 To 14. Princeton, N. J., May 9, 1905. Dear Classmate: As you know, the twentieth anniversary of our graduation occurs this June, and the unanimous wish of the class is that we celebrate this event in the regular manner. The uniform expression, from all members of the class, of the opinion that this reunion should be arranged on the same lines as the most successful reunion in June, 1900, has led your committee to make the following arrangements, which we think will lead to a most enjoyable, hospitable, respectable, and dignified occasion. The...
