Excerpt from Washington at Morristown During the Winters of 1776-77 and 1779-80 This may be regarded as a low view of patriotism, but it is a plain and apprehensible view. I should like to know how rapidly our Government would have carried on the late war with Mexico if the currency with which the expenses were to be defrayed had been made up of Michigan Wild-cat bills. Yet, in spite of these circumstances, Washington's faith was as steady as the magnetic needle. Although drained and weakened as we already are, yet we must make a decisive effort on our part. Our situation demands it. We have the means of success without some unforeseen accident, and it only remains to employ them.
