John Sherman, of Ohio, on Representation of Southern States: Delivered in the Senate of the United States, February 26, 1866 The Senate having under consideration the concurrent resolution of the House of Representatives relative to the representation of certain States - Mr. Sherman said: Mr. President: The immediate question before the Senate is upon the resolution of the House of Representatives, passed on the 21st instant, declaring that no Senator or Representative shall be admitted into either branch of Congress from any of the eleven States which have been declared to be in insurrection until Congress shall have declared such State entitled to such representation. This question, together with the reasons stated in the resolution for its passage, the circumstances under which it is pressed in Congress, and the many pending propositions of a kindred character now on our table, induces me to follow the example so often set in the Senate, and to discuss all these kindred propositions now while I have the floor. I shall do so as clearly and as briefly as possible, in the order...
