Excerpt from A Report on Improvements to Willard Park, Battle Creek, Michigan Sixteen acres is a small tract for an outlying park. Battle Creek is a growing City. It passed through its panic four years ago in finding out that there is a limit to the profitable manufacture of breakfast foods. But the City is now enjoying a substantial growth based upon its varied manufacturing industries and the future outlook for a great and prosperous City could not be more promising. Anyone who has given the subject thought must see the meces sity of a greater park area for Battle Creek. Right now is the time to make provision for the future in this regard. The present entire park area of the City is but twenty-eight acres including the sixteen acres in Willard Park. This means one acre of park land for over a thousand people. It is thus a good thing that some of the people do not take advantage of the parks at all, for otherwise the sign standing room only would have to replace that of keep off the grass.
