Grin Verlag. Paperback. Condition: New. 52 pages. Dimensions: 8.1in. x 5.8in. x 0.2in. Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject English - Pedagogy, Didactics, Literature Studies, grade: 1, 0, Free University of Berlin (Institut fr Englische Philologie), course: Linguistic Gender Studies, language: English, abstract: As Donna Haraway states, all the modern feminist meanings of gender, despite differences, have roots in Simone de Beauvoirs claim that one is not born a woman (de Beauvoir, 1949; 1952, p. 249) and in post-Second World War social conditions. Those conditions have enabled constructions of women as a collective historical subject-in-process. The concept of Gender was developed to question and contest the naturalization of sexual difference in multiple areas of struggle. Feminist theory and practice around gender seek to explain and change historical systems of sexual difference, whereby men and women are socially constructed and positioned in relations of hierarchy and antagonism. (Haraway 1991). The refusal to become or to remain a gendered woman or man is a political challenge also against the imaginary narrative of sex and race. Gender refers primarily but not exclusively to women. It defines the term women as a very broad and internally differentiated category that includes differences as the highly relevant variables of class, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation and age. Of interest are the visible and invisible power mechanisms that influence womens access to responsibility in social, economic, political, religious, intellectual and cultural life. Male and female are culturally produced, socially constructed categories and language is often seen as part of what constructs, maintains and reflects these categories. But on the other hand, we need categories to be able to analyse, study and describe in order to find solutions for change. Gender is transdisciplinary and a study of language, that is an essential basis for active participation in...
