Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Men of Note: Affiliated With Mining and Mining Interests in the Cripple Creek District Bob Womack, The Father of the Cripple Creek District ! Such a title! And yet the man who holds the honor, and holds it alone, of giving to the world the greatest high-grade mining camp on the continent, is today helpless and penniless, dependent upon a loving sister for the clothes he wears and the food he eats. Where is there a more bitter piece of irony than this? The case has no parallel. The man who shipped the first car load of ore from the great gold camp; the man who formerly owned the property which has made hundreds fabulously rich; the man who suffered the humiliation in the early days of the camp for his persistent efforts to find a paying proposition ; the man who actually opened up the famous Gold King property and owned hundreds of acres of land adjoining it, all of which is now sending its stream of yellow metal to the four corners of the earth - such a man sick and penniless! Verily, the days of Bob Womack, The Father of the Cripple Creek District are numbered and he is destined, so fate has decreed, to die in abject poverty! The story has oft been told. As a young man on a cattle ranch owned jointly by himself and father, his spare moments were spent on the now famous hills of the great camp, prospecting for gold. He was laughed at and he was jeered but he did not care. He was convinced that wealth was hidden beneath the rock-ribbed hills for someone and he kept pegging...
