Random House Children s Publishers UK, United Kingdom, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Food. Shelter. Warmth. Love. Voices. Other people s voices, singing - the fifth essential necessity of life. Nick Coleman s new book is an exploration of what singing means and how it works. What does it do to us to listen hard and habitually to somebody else s singing? And why is the singing of others so essential to human life? Why do we love it so? The book asks many other questions too. What was Roy Orbison s problem? Who does Joni Mitchell think she is? Why did Jagger and Lennon sing like that (and not like this)? What did Aretha Franklin do to deserve the title `Queen of Soul ? For that matter, what is soul ? What is the point of crooning? What does it say about you if Frank Sinatra leaves you cold? Billie, Janis, Amy: must the voices of anguish always dissolve into spectacle? The history of post-war popular music is traditionally told sociologically or in terms of musicological influence and innovation in style. Voices takes a different tack. In ten discrete but cohering essays Coleman tackles the arc of that history as if it were an emotional experience with real psychological consequences - as chaotic, random, challenging and unpredictable as life itself. It is the story of what it is to listen and learn. Above all, it is a story of what it means to feel.
