Excerpt from The Chase: A Tale of the Southern States, From the French of Jules Lermina A fine autumn evening; purple clouds still glowing on the horizon; the warm air heavy with fragrance; the dark foliage of the Bois de Boulogne softly shadowed forth in outline against a clear sky; the measured fall of horses hoofs advancing at a foot-pace towards the city: so much for the picturesque aspect of the scene. A few words were now and then softly interchanged between two of the riders, one of whom was a lively, handsome young man; the other, a girl, whose long fair hair fell over her graceful shoulders and slender figure like a mantle. Dear Alice! how happy I am! If you knew how much I love you! Do you think that you will always care for me About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
