For, said she, in spite of what grandmama taught Ber, I m really remarkably fond of the water. She splashed, and she dashed, and she turned herself round. And heartily wished herself safe on the ground. Once upon a time Harry and Laura had got into so many scrapes, that there seemed really no end to their misconduct. They generally forgot to learn any lessons--often tore their books--drew pictures on their slates, instead of calculating sums --and made the pages of their copy-books into boats; besides which, Mrs Crabtree caught them one day, when a party of officers dined at Lady Harriet s, with two of the captains sword-belts buckled round their waists, and cocked hats upon their heads, while they beat the crown of a gentleman s hat with a walking-stick, to sound like a drum. Still it seemed impossible to make uncle David feel sufficiently angry with them, though Mrs Crabtree did all she could to put him in a passion, by telling the very worst; but he made fifty excuses a-minute, as if he had been the naughty person himself, instead of Harry or Laura; and, above all, he said that they both seemed so exceedingly penitent when he explained their delinquencies, and they were both so ready to tell upon themselves, and to take all the blame of whatever mischief might be done, that he was determined to shut his eyes and say...
