It is not unusual for a meeting of this kind to have some one distinctive feature, and the sessions of the last meeting differed from all others in the large number of such phases. The attendance, in the first place, was a record breaker, reaching over eight hundred. It shows that we are on the eve of the thousand mark, which will most likely be reached next year. The work of the departments was more definite and comprehensive than ever before. While there may be many difficulties in the way, after all, this work and its organization may be the nucleus about which will form a state-wide agency for professional improvement of teachers. Some of our number catch a glimpse of such a factor at times, and after a while, with the definite departments of the Maryland State Teachers Association and the Summer School at the Johns Hopkins University serving as beacon lights, we may march from the mesh and tangle of doubt and fear to higher grounds on the question. The County Institute has served a good purpose, but the demands of teaching now seem to require a larger work, a broader vision, and a deeper inspiration than come from the one week institute. The remarkable attendance of Maryland teachers at the Johns Hopkins, Columbia, and other such schools the present summer shows an appreciation of means of improvement as will reflect beneficially on school...
