A high quality pdf as well as the typeface applied was exciting to see. It really is written in simple words and phrases rather than difficult to understand. You will not really feel monotony at any time of your time (that's what catalogs are for relating to in the event you question me).

Excerpt from The City of Nottingham: Past, Present and Future; Its Special Advantages as a Commercial Centre and as a Place of Residence But it is as a commercial centre- that Nottingham has the greatest practical importance and interest. Situated in the very middle of England, and also in the centre of one of the most important coalfields in the county (having several large collieries within the city boundaries), with an ironstone area a few miles away, with economising haulage, and with all public services - gas, electricity, water, trams - municipally controlled and managed on soundly successful commercial lines, it is a fortunate place of abode for the manufacturer and trader. The excellent railway communication with London makes it an eligible place of residence for families of refinement. The health record is excellent, and the Public Health service has a high reputation for efficiency among experts qualified to judge. Not many manufacturing places have a lower death-rate. The supply of labour, both male and female, is abundant and well-trained, technical schools and a school of art doing excellent work for employers in preparing and improving the character of the labour. The educational facilities for children of good families are abundant, comprising high schools and a university college, where a complete curriculum is available, while the free elementary schools and the secondary schools subsidised by the Corporation provide for the children of the large working-class population. The facts thus brie?y summarised - to be developed in fuller detail in the next few pages - will show how advantageous a site Nottingham affords to the highly varied industries at present carried on there. It will be shown that similar advantages are available to manufacturing and...
