Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 38 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.1in. Excerpt from Effects of Tobacco on the Soul: Or on the Transcendent Manifestations of Life; Its Influence on Criminality, Suicide, Sudden Death, Insanity, Extract From Dr. Depierris Social Physiology, Tobacco, Which Contains the Most Violent of Poison, Nicotine: Does It Shorten Life Is It the Cause. It is attempting a vast subject of hygiene and of morals to examine, if tobacco, which contains Nicotine, the most violent of all known poisons, exercises an action upon our soul; if it has an influence on criminality, suicide, sudden death, insanity - the great accidents of our epoch. And, nevertheless, it is but one of the most striking points of this inexhaustible question in regard to tobacco which, today, is debated between the passionate impulse of fashion and the logic of observation and science. Never has a subject, so vain, so trivial in appearance, agitated so many interests, or raised so many contradictory discussions; for it may be said that it divides into two camps all mankind: on one side, its adherents, who number, at least, one fourth of the earth's population; and on the other, its opponents who, in abstaining from its use, protest, by example, against its pretended utility, or resolutely set forth its inconveniences and its dangers. In a former pamphlet, extracted from my Social Physiology, and entitled, Truth on Tobacco, I have given the history of tobacco; I have exposed how, by a fatal mystification, the poison of the Indians invaded Europe, under the pompous denomination of Curare, which signifies, in Spanish, cure, or, by extension, panacea, a remedy for all diseases.
