Approximately 4.54 billion years ago, during the formation of this blue-green planet Earth, wormholes appeared in space near the forming planet. These wormholes allowed matter from a connected alternate universe to flow into our universe. The matter gradually formed a solid sphere and the force of gravity drew the sphere inexorably toward its traveling companion. Approximately 400 million years ago, the sphere, with a mass of hundreds of thousands of tons, plunged through Earth's primordial atmosphere, broke apart and impacted various areas around the globe where it remained undiscovered until the early 21st century. Some strange ore is discovered in a worked-out silver mine and a project is initiated at the Thorny research institute to investigate its properties. The project was headed by the Institute's new and beautiful Director of Mineralogy, Dr. Jill Cramer. The material was later dubbed Q-LITHIUM. Q-LITHIUM exhibited several unique properties of such a nature as to have a significant impact on the world's standard of living and threatened to upend known science and technology. The reasons for all of this are discovered in a surprising twist of science. Sean Henderson (Director of the Institute) and Jill fall for each other over an extended 4th of July weekend at Sean's spectacular home in Incline Village at Lake Tahoe in an intriguing and sensual encounter. An unscrupulous business cabal and the Department of the Navy take interest in the new element. The cabal mounts many daring efforts, including kidnapping, to steal the Q-LITHIUM ore and related research data. The Department of the Navy attempts a take-over of the Q-LITHIUM project with interesting results. New properties of the element constantly reveal themselves...
