Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from From White House to Log Cabin: Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, at the Birth Place of Abraham Lincoln The Lincoln Farm Association which was responsible for the development of the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln at Hodgenville, Kentucky, brought to the historic spot during the period it managed and carried to completion the project, three president of the United States. The purpose of this publication is to present under one cover the addresses delivered by these three visiting presidents; Roosevelt, Tart, and Wilson. The occasions, so much alike in purpose, although occurring at periods in three administrations, called from the speakers remarks of much the same character; which fact will allow the reader to judge in what esteem the Emancipator was held by the Progressive, the Republic; an and the Democratic leader mentioned above. Those interested in the literary ability of these men of letters will find in these three orations of about the same length an opportunity to compare addresses delivered in the same environment and resulting from a common source of inspiration. No attempt is made by the author in the introductory remarks proceeding each article, to give other than the immediate data necessary to acquaint the reader with the program of the occasion under which the address was delivered. For illustrated description of the Lincoln National Park, see book under aforesaid caption by the same author, and printed by the same publisher as the volume in hand.
