This is the story of my life till now: First, in a nutshell: Born October 18, 1944, Walcott, North Dakota, in a little farmhouse on the prairie. At 5 years old he met James R, his best friend for life; at 6 he received his first kiss--and on the lips--from Maxine (hell never forget it); at 7 he saw his first love and discovered imagination; at 10 he survived a tornado, which destroyed the family farm and put his entire family in the hospital; at 12 his first fight (he lost; but, unbelievably, 30 years later, the other guy says he lost); at 14 he quit school (the social shock of leaving a one-room country schoolhouse for the town school was too much); at 15 his first job (doing chores for a farmer 7 days a week for 25. 00, not day but week), also his first car (1948 Chevie 2-door; and, no, he doesn't still have it); at 17 he joined the US Navy (and talk about a social shock!); at 18 submarine duty and his first beer. . . same day his first drunk; at 19 his first, well, you know; at 20 he survived drowning; at 21 he met Sue in Sydney, Australia, his second love and the love of his life (unfortunately his sub left the harbor and he never went back); at 30 he started writing and met his third love; at 33 he lost that love; (during the next 13 years no first anything's but 3 failed businesses, a flower and gift shop, a greenhouse, and fence contractor, a period best forgotten); at 46 he got his first publishing (The Real Meaning of a Quarter in PKAs...
