Blogosphere Madness (Ravings of a Religious Fanatic) In this book, we reach out to the world by recapping some of the issues that affected life on earth. We do not rehash the issues; rather, we place them in a relationship to religious practice. You may think that there is no reason to muddy the waters of current political and social actions by encasing them in a religious shell (though, we really do not have a choice in that matter). Actually, everything we do exists in a religious shell; since everything that we do has a relationship to this force of reality: truth. An open question Thinking through the concept of truth reminds me of a conversation recorded in the Bible. It is a conversation between Jesus and a, connected, rulers of his day, Pilate; during which Pilate posed this question: What is truth? There is no record in Scripture of an answer to that question—in that form. Yes, there is a statement saying who truth is; however, there is no answer as to what truth is. The answer to the question of who truth is, is this: Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life. Opportunity for discovery It is my belief that the question was not definitively answered because God wants us to struggle to discover the answer. I do not say that without having a Scripture reference in mind. The authority for that thought is this portion of a rebuke of the LORD, as delivered to Moses siblings. And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myself known unto…
