Excerpt: .bending sorrowfully over the stone sarcophagus that held his remains. To-morrow we join battle with the barbaric king. From the tower of the pylon which looks towards the south, I see his vast army, with its battalion of elephants, its host of brazen chariots, its horsemen and footmen as numerous as the leaves. But I feel confident of victory. Prince Moeris has moved his galleys on the opposite side, in order to ascend secretly by night and gain the rear of the enemy, who are without boats. My chariots, some five hundred in number, have been crossed over in safety to this side, to co-operate with the Prince of Thebes. They are now drawn up in the wide, Buperb serpentine avenue, the sacred way of Thebes, lined with sphinxes and statues which adorn this vast circle of temples to the gods. You shall hear from me after the battle. If...
