Getting information from the university and my mentor is so discouraging and frustrating! I pondered on this exclamation, and decided to create a simple, easy to read guide to assist students with dissertation and thesis writing. Students at any point in their degree program can use this book in preparation for continuing as a life-long researcher and learner. Using this guide to augment the academic writing journey could help doctoral and master s students save money on hiring outside individuals for editorial or coaching assistance. The less errors in the paper, the more successful students can be!
