MAKE MONEY AT CRAFT SHOWS: A GUIDE FOR CRAFTERS

Trafford Publishing. Paperback. Condition: New. Nick Watkins (illustrator). 102 pages. Dimensions: 8.8in. x 5.6in. x 0.6in. Craft shows harken back to the days when everything was made locally. Today the majority of clothing, jewellery, and all manner of handcrafted and food items are imported and too many businesses are only interested in the bottom line. Go into any mall, and its obvious that the variety and quality of goods offered have a sameness that cant be disguised by different brand names, and customer service is barely existent. Thats why craft shows and fairs are more popular than ever. This provides an opportunity for crafters and artists to showcase their skills and products. However, it doesnt mean a crafter can just show up and that customers will buy everything she puts on her table. She has to know how to attract customers. To put this another way, there is a lot of competition for the retail dollar, and there are tips and tricks to attracting customers. This book will help crafters compete in todays marketplace, and covers researching a product niche, exhibiting at a craft or trade show, selling and advertising techniques, craft show etiquette, setting a price for crafts, and record keeping and accounting. We show crafters how to profitably sell their crafts. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
