Aditya Prakashan, New Delhi, 1999. Hardcover. Condition: New. The Discovery of the legendary City of Dvaraka which is said to have been founded by Sri Krishna, is an important landmark in the History of India. It has set at rest the doubts expressed by historians about the historicity of Mahabharata and the very existence of Dvaraka city. It has greatly narrowed the gap in Indian history by establishing the continuity of the Indian Civilization from the Vedic Age to the present day. The discovery has also shed welcome light on second urbanization in the so-called `Dark Age`, on the resuscitation of dharma, on the resumption of maritime trade, and use of Sanskrit Language and modified Indus script. Incidentally, Scientific data useful for a Study of Sea level changes and effect of Marine Environment on Metals and Wood over long periods has also been generated by underwater exploration. All this was possible because of the dedicated and daring efforts of marine archaeologists, scientists and technicians of the Marine Archaeology Centre of the National Institute of Oceanography. In Chapter 1 of the book an attempt is made to acquaint the reader with the main personalities and Events of the Mahabharata and to give various shades of opinion about the human-divine Character of Sri Krishna, although for purposes of scientific Investigation of the city of Dvaraka it did not matter much whether he was a divine or a human being with superhuman qualities. His commitment to uphold the dignity of man and to induce people to do their duty fearlessly and without expecting any reward have guided succeeding generations of Indians to follow the path of Dharma as enunciated in the Bhagavadgita. Chapter 2 gives a summary of the textual references to the location of Dvaraka and checks the claims of four different...
