CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 50 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.1in.One beautiful morning in October the sun came up rejoicing. Dotty Dimple watched it from the window with feelings of peculiar pleasure. I should think that old sun would wear out and grow rough round the edges. Why not Last week it was ever so dull; now it is bright. I shouldnt wonder if the angels up there have to scour it once in a while. You perceive that Dottys ideas of astronomy were anything but correct. She supposed the solar orb was composed of a very peculiar kind of gold, which could be rubbed as easily as Norahs tin pans, though so intensely hot that ones fingers would, most likely, be scorched in the operation. On this particular morning she felt an unusual interest in the state of the weather. It had been decided that she should go West with her father, and this was the day set for departure. I am happy up to my throat: so she said to Prudy. And now all this happiness was to be buttoned up in a cunning little casaque, with new gaiters at the feet, and a hat and rosette at the top. Forty pounds or so of perfect delight going down to the depot in a carriage. Dont you wish you could go, Zip Parlin Id like to hear you bark in the cars; and Id like to hear you talk, Prudy, too! As Dotty spoke, the faintest possible shadow flickered across her radiant face; but it was only for a moment. She could not have quite everything she wanted, because she could not have Prudy; but then they were to take a basket of cold boiled eggs, sandwiches, and...
