Dead Move: Kate Morgan and the Haunting Mystery of Coronado, 125th Anniversary, 1892 Gaslamp True Crime

By John T Cullen

Clocktower Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 168 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.4in. The tragic and fascinating story of the Beautiful Stranger is uncovered for the first time since her mysterious and violent death. Its a noir 1892 San Diego gaslamp true crime involving blackmail, the Gilded Age, and men in powerful places as the Yellow Press hinted. Her demise led to the famous ghost legend - a Coronado Mystery finally explained by John T. Cullen, a San Diego author. The story was a national sensation across the United States that year, powered by rumors and titillations. The truth, as finally uncovered by the author, is far stranger and more fascinating than the scandalous news stories of the time, or even the muddled ghost legend that endures to this day. In her shocking and heart-wrenching death, Lizzie (age 24) became that quintessential Victorian ideal of womanhood - the Innocent but Fallen Angel, epitomized in Thomas Hardys tragic and sentimental novel Tess, A Pure Woman Faithfully Presented (1891). Both Tess and Lizzie were beautiful young women brought low by an evil world - only Lizzie was the real deal. Because so much was at stake, the true crime at the Hotel del...
