Not illustrated. 1889 Excerpt: .has only reached the tender age of six weeks, and I would therefore very much rather listen than talk. I came here to learn, not to teach. The language of the law of Congress which creates experiment stations and provides for their maintenance says that in each of the agricultural colleges created under the act of 1862 there shall be a department known and designated as an experiment station; and one section of that act, it seems to me, furnishes all the guidance we have. Permit me therefore thread the second section: Sec. 2. That it shall be the object and duty of said experiment stations to conduct original researches or verify experiments on the physiology of plants and animals; the diseases to which they are severally subject, with the remedies for the same; the chemical composition of useful plants at their different stages of growth the comparative advantages of rotative cropping as pursued under a varying series of crops; the capacity of new plants or trees for acclimation; the analysis of soils and water; the chemical composition of manures, natural or artificial, with experiments designed to test their comparative effects on crops of different kinds; the adaptation and digestibility of different kinds of food for domestic animals; the scientific and economic questions involved in the production of butter and cheese; and such other researches or experiments bearing directly on the agricultural industry of the United States as may in each case be deemed advisable, having...
