Brand New Book. Excerpt from The Quarterly Journal, Vol. 3: Of the New York State Historical Association The subject of this biographical sketch was born on November 11, 1866, in the town of Ramapo, Rockland County, New York. For more than two hundred years, his ancestors, who were of pure Dutch blood in both paternal and maternal lines lived continuously in contentment and comparative prosperity as inhabitants of that region. It was about 1660, approximately but a generation after the first Dutch settlements, that the forbears of Mr. Blauvelt settled at Tappan. The farm on which he was born at the close of the Civil War had been in the possession of his family continuously after 1780. Here, then, is a citizen whose ancestral roots run back through the era of national statehood through the period of the Revolution, through the entire English colonial epoch, and into the time of Dutch beginnings. It is small wonder, therefore, that he has always manifested such a profound and intelligent interest in the history and general welfare of his native commonwealth. I am deeply interested, he wrote on one occasion in local and statewide civic affairs. I believe it is the duty of every individual citizen to contribute something to the general welfare, and it has always been my purpose to do something in that direction.
