Excerpt from Help Me, or I Perish!: The Plea for Penitentiaries; A Sermon Preached by the Bishop of Moray and Ross, Before the Church Penitentiary Association, at St. James Church, Piccadilly, on Thursday, April 24, 1856 Manifold as are the demands which are made upon Church men for their alms and offerings, towards the relief of the temporal and spiritual necessities of their brethren, yet is there nothing more capable of proof than this, that the vast wealth of this country is capable of meeting demands far more extensive than any which have yet been made, if the true principle of Christian almsgiving were not only in words recognised, but in deeds acted upon. I mean, that willing hearted sacrifice which is thewessence of true Christian charity. We find, my brethren, that we can part with more when we are compelled to do so, and yet that at the same time we abate not ought of our many comforts. An in creased Income Tax has led many to discover what love for God had failed to reveal to them, viz. That they could have given more than they have given; and the law of man has exacted what the law of love was powerless to win. When then we are met together, as we are this day, with the view of promoting a work of as true Christ-like love as it is well possible to conceive, I will plead with you to aid us in this work by the love of Christ as the motive-spring of your charity by entreating you to remember that, if God had not given us peace, you would have been made to part with yet more of that...
