Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Church Government: A Speech Delivered at Christchurch, New Zealand, 15th March, 1852 The Church of England being in such a state as I have described, has sent out numerous bodies of offspring to all parts of the world; I beg your pardon; she cannot send, because as I have explained to you, as a Church she cannot do anything; I should have said, numerous bodies of her offspring have gone out from her, bearing with them the principles and traditions of their spiritual mother, and they have to adapt these as best they can, to a new set of political and social circumstances. Amongst other things they have to see how they can get on without government in a state of things which urgently requires corporate action. The Colonial Church is cast on her own resources altogether she has, generally speaking, neither influence, nor friends, nor consideration bequeathed to her or provided for her ready made; she must obtain them as she can, by personal efforts, if I may use the term. But personal efforts require, of course, a personal agency; in order to collect funds to build churches, to get and keep congregations, to exercise order and discipline amongst them, and to convert the heathen, a machinery is wanted; the old machinery, such as it is, is inapplicable or inadequate, and there is no one with authority to create new. The consequence is, that the Anglican communion almost invariably falls, at the commencement of a colony, below the level of other denominations. I do not recollect a single instance when, under such circumstances, she can be said to have held her own. Other sects come out accustomed to self-organization and...
